

Naviant Group Overview

Mission

Naviant Group is the business process management provider to executives requiring innovative and complete solutions to critical process and document flow challenges.

Our Vision

By concentrating first on process and how people engage in the process, and later on technology to enable the process, we can design the most efficient way to accomplish your goals while leveraging your existing investment in technology and infrastructure. At Naviant Group, we believe business processes are the merging of process and people-related concepts that evolve with continuous process improvement. Our methodical approach shows our commitment to process, and forces logic and ideals into well-organized business models.

Our Approach

Using a consultative product-agnostic approach, Naviant Group reviews current organizational processes, technologies, and systems and make validations and recommendations.

Our approach follows an iterative methodology, which allows for improved and accurate requirements definition while adhering to project direction and deadlines through an open dialogue of communication between our clients and consultants.
